Kindly find enclosed the information about "Smart India Hackathon" which has tried to find innovative solutions to the problem statements of interest.

It is found that there is inadequate participation by IITs and NITs, probably because there is inadequate information about it to the students. This will provide an opportunity for the best brains to showcase their talent to crack problems that are faced by common man.

Is it possible for you to spread the word around so that we have adequate participation? HRM has extended the time for submission of the entries so that there is more participation from IITs and NITs.

regards

Subrahmanyam
